Barre friends of Miss Katherine Stewart, a former resident of Barre and a graduate of Spaulding high school, will be interested to learn that she recently received an appointment as principal of the high school in East Longmeadow, Mass., where she has been engaged as a teacher for the past two years.

What is said to be the seventh knitting of horses in Barre during the past three years occurred Saturday night when John Worcester of South Barre drove his family driving mare, "Cherry," to the city and hitched the animal in the yard near the Bugbee sawmill off Summer street. He drove home and knew nothing of the animal's condition until some time later in the evening when the animal gave signs of distress by pawing. Thinking that the horse was hungry, the owner gave her some grain and still she pawed. Dr. E. N. Bancroft, veterinarian, was called twice during the night but was not able to determine the trouble. The next morning the mare was found dead in the barn, and blood on her hoofs led to an investigation. A cut at the neck just under the head, investigation at the place where the animal had been hitched revealed a pool of blood, and at the rendering plant where the horse was removed an investigation showed a knife-like wound.

Seventeen pages of foolscap with the names thereon typewritten in "mass formation" were required for the roster of names entered in Barre Tuesday and one of the five copies of the roster has been placed on the bulletin board in the city hall corridor. There are 1,020 names, arranged alphabetically and divided into precincts or wards. Smiths and Andersons are among the names which predominate on the roster and the nationalities represented are many. The pages are arranged in rows along the bulletin board and since yesterday there has been scarcely a moment in the day when someone was not studying the columns. Most of the time there is a sizeable knot of people gathered in the corridor. There is a certain amount of satisfaction, it appears, in ascertaining just who is liable for military service, but the curious one, if he be aware of their respective ward locations, is not put to very much trouble in ascertaining whether his acquaintances all registered, for the roster includes every last name.

An Economical Menu.

Excursion to Fort Ethan Allen or Plattsburg. See ad. on page 6.

Mr. Howland will be at the Barre Savings Bank & Trust Co. Saturday from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m., for the purpose of receiving Liberty loans.

Members of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin will receive holy communion in a body at the 9 o'clock mass Sunday, which will be offered for their intentions.

The Headquarters company at Fort Ethan Allen acknowledges the receipt of four boxes of cigars from Andrew J. Guthrie of this city, and, needless to say, the smokers are much appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Counter returned last night from Boston, where the former recently disposed of his laundry business, which he had managed for the past two years. Mr. and Mrs. Counter expect to remain in Barre for a time.

G. H. Douglass has added to his realty holdings at the corner of Currier and Tremont streets by the purchase of a building lot from the Currier estate, a deed transferring the land having been registered yesterday. Mr. Douglass was one of several who invested in building lots at a sale held Wednesday by the executor of the Currier estate. Others who purchased land were John Pressley and Louis Bergman.

John Kerr of Waterbury, who was locked up on an intoxication charge late last night, acknowledged a subsequent offense when arraigned before Magistrate H. W. Scott in city court just before noon today. When questioned for a disclosure by Grand Juror William Wislart, the respondent said that he had been keeping company with Martin Bancroft and Joe Bennett, who are implicated in the alleged theft of beer on River street last night and early to-day. Kerr, however, maintained that the liquor he drank came from a Granville man. Being unable to pay a fine of $15 and costs imposed by the judge, Kerr went to jail to serve the alternative sentence.

Two fraternal orders are to observe Sunday as their special Memorial day, according to arrangements made by committees representing the Pythians and the Odd Fellows. Members of Vincitua Lodge, K. of P., are to attend services in the morning at the First Baptist church, where Rev. B. J. Lehigh will preach the sermon. To-day plans were completed by the Odd Fellows for a memorial service in the First Presbyterian church Sunday evening, when Rev. Edgar Crossland will be the preacher. Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and members of Canton Vinton, the latter in full dress uniform, will march from their hall to the church at 6:30 o'clock.

Barre granite of the finest grain was used in a memorial which marks a spot at the edge of Lincoln City, Ind., where Abraham Lincoln lived from 1816 to 1830. A picture of the monument printed in the Evansville (Ind.) Courier describes it as weighing 12,000 pounds and measuring seven and one-half feet in height. Rough stock was furnished by a well known quarrying concern in Barre and the monument was cut by a retailing firm in Evansville. The site of the Lincoln cabin is a little less than a half-mile from Lincoln City and the citizens of the city expect to build a cement walk to the memorial. Citizens of Spencer county financed the cutting and setting of the stone, which bears the inscription: "Spencer County Memorial to Abraham Lincoln, Who Lived on This Spot from 1816 to 1830." The committee which acted for the county is said to be considering Barre granite for use in other monuments that are to mark historic sites in that section of Indiana.

MONTPELIER

Robert H. Hawkins, who has operated the Imperial bowling alley and pool room on State street for the past nine months, having purchased the interest of his partner, Thomas Short, left early this week for parts unknown. He made his departure very quietly and several of his creditors in the city are wondering where he is now located. The Imperial has been in charge of Stanley Morse for the past few days, but it is understood that unless the place is closed it will be taken over by three prominent Montpelier men who are credited with holding a mortgage on the place. Mr. Hawkins has resided in Montpelier for the past eight or ten years, having been employed at the Elks' home until a year ago, when he went in business.

The Washington County Farm Bureau association voted yesterday afternoon to move the headquarters of the association from Barre to Montpelier. The following officers were elected: President, C. A.

CARBON---One Motor's Meat is Another's Poison

Every motor must "digest" its quota of carbon—or be "operated" upon.

And all over the land the repair shops are constantly cluttered with cars requiring the carbon "operation."

Their motors cannot digest the "poison" and after progressive carbon indigestion they limp to repair shops for carbon cleaning and valve grinding.

But this same carbon that is "poison" for every other type of motor is nourishment for the Willys-Knight.

It constantly rebuilds the motor's vitality, first improving it to maximum efficiency, then sustaining it at that point.

Many a Willys-Knight motor has outrun the life-span of the other types without mechanical attention—and continues to deliver at top efficiency with its accustomed quietness.

If everyone knew what the 12,000 purchasers of last season's Willys-Knight output have learned, no automobile factory yet built would be big enough to supply the demand.

Willys-Overland dealers have these big advantages to offer.
